Article 6. About the Career.

6.1. General.

- The course will be properly signposted, in its entirety, either by the organization's marking or by taking advantage of the approved trail markers, paying special attention to the marking of urban sections, the marking of crossings, places of risk for runners and other places of possible losses and whenever necessary, and as far as possible, the organization will physically place someone in those places.
- A profile and the mandatory checkpoints of each course will be sent to all runners, included in the "Runner's Guide".
- The GPS track of each of the routes will be provided on the website.
- The use of the chip and bib given by the organization to the runner is mandatory throughout the race. The bib must be placed on the runner in a visible way on the front part of the body. It may not be folded or cut. The manipulation or transfer of the bib may be cause for immediate penalty or disqualification.
- In case of abandonment, it will be compulsory to hand in the bib at the intermediate points (checkpoints or refreshment posts).

6.2. Refueling.

- The five stages of Eurafrika Trail 2024 are held in conditions of semi-self-sufficiency (understanding by this term that the number of refreshment posts of these races requires runners to carry their own food and drink for the stretches between the refreshment posts).
- At the controls of the refreshment posts, containers will be placed where participants can deposit waste at the control point, the refreshment post being the only place enabled to deposit waste during the race. Doing so in other places will result in a penalty for the runner.

- There will be solid and liquid refreshment posts during the race, which will be detailed in the description of the race modalities on the race web page and in the "Runner's Guide", which will be sent to each participant before the race.
- Each participant must carry the food he/she believes necessary.
- At the refreshment posts there will be no plastic cups or similar, these must be carried by the runner.
- There will be a refreshment service at the finish line for all runners.
- It is strictly forbidden to receive external assistance or refreshments from people (competitors or not) during the race. External assistance will only be allowed in the areas set up for this purpose at all refreshment posts.

6.3. Passage controls.

- Controls will be placed for the passage of runners, at the discretion of the organization, according to security, strategy and access. Secret controls may also be placed at the discretion of the organization.
- Time limits will be established to ensure the safety of both participants and members of the organization of the race.
- Runners who exceed these time barriers will not be allowed to continue in competition.
- Those who wish to continue will have their bibs removed and may continue out of the race at their own risk. The bib may be collected at the finish line once the race is over.
- The safety cut-off times will be indicated on the website and in the race profile.
- Runners who are cut off, do not participate or abandon a stage of the INTERCONTINENTAL modalities, will start the next stage with a time equal to that of the last classified in the previous stage plus one hour, in the general classification.
- Failure to pass any of the checkpoints on the chip provided by the organization may be cause for penalty or disqualification.

6.4. Race Security.

- The organization will place, at certain points along the route and at checkpoints, specialized personnel in charge of ensuring the safety of the participants. It is mandatory to follow the indications of these personnel, who will be properly identified.

- In case of abandonment, the organization staff must be informed as soon as possible.
- Medical personnel and ambulances will be available at strategic points along the route to intervene in case of need.
- In case the weather conditions make it advisable, there will be an alternative route that will be conveniently communicated in the technical meeting prior to the start.
- In case of bad weather conditions or for safety reasons, the organization reserves the right to stop the race, modify the route or vary the time limits.
- A broom team, in charge of closing the race, will check the passage of all participants.

6.5. Safety Standards.

- It is mandatory to follow the indications of the controls and the organization's security forces.
- It is obligatory to help a participant who asks for help.
- The organization may withdraw a runner from the competition and remove his bib when it considers that his physical or technical capacities are impaired due to fatigue and the wear and tear suffered during the race, thus ensuring his safety.
- The organization reserves the right to organize groups to progress together in the race for safety reasons.

6.6. Responsibilities.

- Participants run at their own risk. It is their decision to start and run the race.
- It will be mandatory for all participants of the Intercontinental modalities to undergo an official medical check-up issued at the latest one calendar year before the start of the race.
- It is our obligation as organizers and runners to protect the environment in which the race takes place, so that our impact on it is the least possible, therefore, all participants must know and accept the environmental regulations of #Eurafrica24, which aims to minimize the environmental impacts of the race and its participants.

- Runners will mark the wrappers of gels, bars and other food with the bib number. This point of the regulation will be controlled by the technical team of the race before and during the race.

6.6.1. Penalties.

- A runner or pair will be penalized or disqualified when incurring in any of the points listed below (the referee team will have the power to issue warnings, if it deems appropriate, before applying a penalty):
- Failure to respect the marked route or signaling route to cut.
- Receiving help or refreshments (except aid) from any person, competitor or not, outside the areas provided for this purpose (refreshment posts).
- Refuse to wear the race bib, cut it off or give it away.
- Changing or modifying the markings of the material provided by the organization.
